

WHILE THE AMOUNT of money one has or controls, his moral responsibility and his integrity are factors, the care a man gives to his bank account, be it large or small, has much to do with the establishing of a bank credit.

A small account well cared for, frequently establishes a credit for its owner—a credit which is of great assistance at a time when a little credit enables him to successfully pull through a deal, sometimes netting more than the amount of his account.

Be on the safe side, start an account with us—it will be useful later.

Letter to Justice Everett

Scotland Neck, N. C.

Dear Sir: Josh Billings never said anything truer than this: "Success duz not konsist ov never makin' blunders, but in not makin' the same wun twist."

N. R. Watkins, of Lott, Texas, had his house painted some years ago, and it took 13 gallons of what he believed to be paint; he bought it for paint, and it looked like paint, the painter said it was paint.

He has had it painted again; it took 7 gallons Devco.

It cost $65 before; now $35. He knows it is painted now, and he's got that $30 in a safe place. He's got his knowledge in a safe place too.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVCO & Co.

Child Badly Burned.

On last Wednesday a great misfortune occurred in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allsbrook, who live about two miles from this place. Sometime during the afternoon Mrs. Allsbrook, who had a fire around a pot in the yard, was for some reason called away for a few minutes. The little three-year-old daughter, Clara, was left standing near. A sudden puff of wind blew the skirts of the child into the flames, and they were ignited. Before the mother could return, the entire front part of the child's body was badly burned. It is not yet known whether she will recover. We sympathize with the parents in this great misfortune.

A Reported Wreck.

To-day (Wednesday) as we go to press the northbound train is reported several hours late. Conflicting reports have grown out of this delay. We have it, through the 'phone station here, from Greenville, that there has been a wreck near Grifton, and that one or two passengers are slightly injured. However, we have just learned from Mr. LaFrage, the depot agent here, that the delay is caused by a box car's being off the track in front of the train, and that there has been no wreck.

Died Near Weldon.

On the morning of Monday Oct. 28, at half-past seven o'clock, Mr. A. T. Cook died at his home about six miles from Weldon, N. C. He had been a patient sufferer for about twelve months, and his death was as peaceful, as his life had been patient. The body was interred in the family burying ground on Oct. 29, funeral being preached by his pastor, Mr. Hmble. A number of his people live in Maryland and Pennsylvania, among them Rev. O. R. Cook of Pennsylvania. We sympathize with his family, friends, and relatives.

Governor Glenn to Speak.

On next Tuesday night, November 12th, Governor R. B. Glenn will address the people of this community at Madry's New Warehouse. Governor Glenn is the one governor in the United States upon whom the eyes of the whole nation have rested and are still resting. He is to-day better known than the governor of New York. Let everybody come and hear one of the foremost statesmen of our country.

Waddell-Neal.

The following announcement was clipped from Thursday's News and Observer.

"Major John Baker Neal invites you to be present at the marriage of his daughter, Emily McDowell, to Mr. James Grodon Waddell, Thursday afternoon, November the fourteenth, nineteen hundred and seven, at half after three o'clock, at twenty-two church street, Scotland Neck, North Carolina."

Will Meet Thursday, November 7th.

The U. D. C. will meet in the hall of the Buck Kitchen Camp Thursday, November 7th, 1907 at 8:30 p. m. The annual dues must be paid, and officers for the coming year will be elected. All of the Daughters please come.

Senator Mitchell of Bertie.

Scotland Neck gave Hon. C. W. Mitchell, of Bertie, the largest audience Tuesday night, that has yet greeted a speaker during our present fight. Long before the speaker's arrival every seat in Madry's Warehouse was occupied, and many were standing. During what is usually a tedious wait, before the opening of the address, the audience was entertained by a band of Italians, who happened to be in our town. Mr. Albion Dunn opened the meeting by announcing that we had assembled to hear one speaker, but we would hear two; for Rev. R. L. Gay, of Auander, was present and would give us a short talk.

Rev. Mr. Gay said that he had been taken unawares, for he had, at least, expected to be left until the last; however, he was always ready and willing to speak in behalf of the home, of morality, of manhood. He then made the statement that the use of of intoxicants is the greatest evil known to civilized people; that this fact is recognized by courts of justice, insurance companies, and business men of all classes. He then gave statistics and instances from his own observation, showing its ravages. As to the argument that prohibition kills a town and raises taxes, he named town after town, from his own observation, which had been built up largely under prohibition. He proved that revenues derived from saloons are nearly always consumed in the prosecution of the criminals made thereby. Mr. Gay's speech was strong and convincing and showed that he had spoken, not because he had been called upon, but because he had had something to say.

Mr. Dunn introduced Senator Mitchell as the friend of Scotland Neck, saying that our people had been constrained to turn from their own representatives at Raleigh, and seek a friend and representative elsewhere. Senator Mitchell had been called upon and had fought for their good with all the force of his noble manhood.

Mr. Mitchell, in the start, said that he was waging no personal fight, and he appealed to our people to forget persons, and decide this question on its merits. In opening his argument for prohibition, he gave a touching experience from his own history, saying that the incident, small as it seemed, had been big with meaning to himself, and had given him the guiding principles of his life. He said that when our voters have come to the point where they consider the influence of woman as sickly sentimentality, we are getting to a dangerous place, for upon that influence is founded all the nobleness and chivalry of our Southern manhood. He said that God's first question to man was: Man where art thou? his second: Where is your brother? the two implying man's responsibility to God, and his fellow man. Therefore no Christian or lover of humanity can vote for a thing so full of dangers for the Church and home and do his duty. Senator Mitchell, although a plain, practical business man, is yet a statesman. He made the startling statement that a man who votes for saloons violates his oath to support the Constitution of North Carolina. Our Constitution says, "Education, morality, and religion being essential to good government, should forever be encouraged." He holds that a man, who votes for the encouragement of the whiskey traffic, is voting directly against the above provision.

Mr. Mitchell then became specific. He referred to the deplorable condition of his own town under open saloons, how lawless drinkers fired pistols at random and defied the officers of the law. He gave many instances of worthless drunkards, who now under prohibition are worthy and respectable citizens. The saloon keeper himself, he said, is now a Christian and a supporter of all that's good in the town. Finally he said that property has advanced 100 per cent since the going of saloons, and they have one of the finest graded schools in the whole section.

Finally he referred to Senator Hoar's statement that the South will in the future free this country of all its perplexing problems, and keep it pure. He considered this great Southern wave of prohibition as the beginning of that great work of delivery.

He showed that the leading Democratic statesmen of our State and the South are prohibitionists, and that but for the danger of the negro vote and the consequent necessity of a solid white man's vote, we would not have lived under saloon damnation for the past forty years.

Senator Mitchell is a man of practical experience, and favors prohibition, because he knows it's for the good of the community. He is a successful business man, and therefore accustomed to acting on sound reasons, and not upon mere sentiment. His speech made a deep impression, and was greatly appreciated.
